

Human trafficking

Information for trafficked persons

Have you, or people in your immediate environment, been lured to Switzerland under false promises, and are you threatened or coerced or not paid for your work by your employer or another person? Get in touch with one of the specialist agencies listed below (anonymously if you prefer).

Information for healthcare professionals

It is often difficult to distinguish between victims of human trafficking and victims of public or domestic violence since the perpetrators are often identified in this environment. A national Fedpol campaign shows how victims can be identified.

Handling suspected cases is particularly difficult since victims and their relatives are in acute danger and financially dependent.
